

Applied Human Informatics (AHI) - Special Issue on Intelligent Environments for Health and Well-being

Applied human informatics (AHI)

Open Journal of the Academy of Human Informatics (ISSN 2433-2372)

About AHI

Information

Editorial Board

Archive

Submission

Call for Papers

『Special Issue on Intelligent Environments for Health and Well-being』

In this special issue we seek novel research contributions on Intelligent Environments controlled by Human Factors to improve daily well-being. The range of expected contributions includes well-being estimation techniques, intelligent environment control method, and well-being user studies.

○Guest Editors

Pr. Guillaume Lopez, Aoyama Gakuin University, Japan
Pr. Paulo Novais, University of Minho, Portugal
Dr. Tahera Hossain, Aoyama Gakuin University, Japan

○Important Dates

Submission Deadline Date: January 2023
Authors Notification Date: March 2023
Revised Papers Due Date: May 2023
Final notification Date: July 2023
Scheduled publication: September 2023

○How to submit manuscript template(MS Word 2010 file format)

submission address: [ahi-journal [at] npowin.org]

(in the e-mail title put "Special Issue on Intelligent Environments for Health and Well-being")

For more detail information about the scope of the journal, the review/publication process, indexing and archiving, see Journal's general description.

About AHI

The Academy of Human Informatics is a non-profit scientific organization of engineers, scientists, and physicians, which creates new academic research fields, by applying and integrating widely to various fields researches about the information emitted by humans, and participates actively in the improvement of human society.